

BEFORE YOU REGISTER, PLEASE NOTE:

Pen Dragons sponsors workshops, not webinars. There is a distinct difference. We try to make the experience, for both student and instructor, as close to an in-person experience as we can in these times of separation and isolation.

A good teacher, stepping into a classroom, is entering into a symbiotic relationship. Cues from the students, both visual and oral, provide a guide to pacing, whether content is understood, where further instruction is needed. Corrections can be made early and more effectively.

A teacher is not a TV reporter, regurgitating information to the eye of a camera. Teaching is interactive.

Although you will have access to video of our workshops, which may be watched as often and whenever you wish, you are signing up for a Pen Dragons' workshop. You are agreeing to participate, with both video and audio, excusing yourself briefly, if needed, as you would in person.

Instead of receiving a pdf of handouts to run on your own printer, you will receive handouts, printed on quality paper, bound, and mailed to you. Best of all, through your presence, you will help the instructor do a better job and have the opportunity to interact with a wonderful, sharing group of fellow calligraphers.
